DWARF APPLES are listed by us for the first time, and the varieties marked with * are the only ones we can supply. They bear young, never get to be large trees, and, therefore, are easily pruned and sprayed. The fruit is larger and better on the dwarfs than on standards, and is much easier picked. The Dwarf Apple is especially well adapted for small plots, or as fillers among other trees. Give them a trial and you will be pleased with your experiment.

Peaches.

Maule Early Peach.

It is earlier than Sneed and in a class by itself as it cannot be compared with any of the other early peaches. It is a peach in every sense of the word, as much so as the later peaches, which it resembles, and it seems remarkable how well it appears and how good the quality when you consider how early it is.

The tree is vigorous and a tremendous cropper. The peach is a clear white, overspread with a bright red, flesh is firm, juicy and excellent. It is not a perfect freestone but a half cling.

It is a good shipper and hangs on the tree until fully ripened without rotting. It carries well and shipments have been made and held for six days in the city under ordinary conditions without any damage to the fruit.

Pedigree Japan Mammoth Chestnut.—The tree is decidedly ornamental, hardy and productive, of dwarf habit bearing extremely young. Nuts of enormous size and of better flavor than the Spanish Chestnut.

Trees commence to bear when but two or three years old, often producing a large crop as they stand in the nursery rows, and we have seen burrs containing from four to seven large perfect nuts. The size of the nut is about four times larger than the wild chestnut, and it is a tree which everyone should plant. The nuts are very fine and sell for a high price. The Japan Seedling is sure to produce nuts, and our long experience with the tree teaches us that seedlings are as sure to produce as grafted trees, and are longer lived.

Our Pedigree Japan Mammoths are grown from selected seed of the genuine Japan Giant, and also produce nuts of immense size, and should not be confounded with what are generally offered as Japan Chestnuts.

Rhododendrons.

There is nothing in our opinion that so completely unites grandeur and usefulness in arbor culture as the Rhododendron. The dark green color and glossy richness of its persistent foliage, in connection with the variety and beauty of color of its remarkably large, conical flowers, render an effect that almost beggars description. The plant prefers a peaty soil and a situation of partial shade, and yet neither of these considerations is indispensable to the successful growth of plants. After the plants are set, cover the ground with three inches of good manure. Water well in dry weather during Spring and Summer. Keep the ground mellow about the plants and see that the manure is replaced after each time of digging. Every plant will bloom this Spring.

It was the wonder of the neighborhood and has attracted attention for years.

It is a cross between a yellow flint and a white dent corn and the result is a very pale yellow corn with a very small cob and large deep grains.

Try some of these small plants and trees.

The Roses are particularly fine and are not measly little potted plants. They are all outdoor grown.

The Apple trees are such as we are planting in our own orchards.

New Jersey State Board of Agriculture

No. 23, 1909. OFFICE OF THE STATE ENTOMOLOGIST
New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 10, 1909.

This is to certify that I have this 10th day of September, 1909, inspected the general nursery stock growing on the Village Nurseries, Jos. H. Black, Son & Co., proprietors, at Hightstown, Mercer County, N. J., and have found the same apparently free from San Jose Scale and other dangerously injurious insect pests, also that the examined stock seemed healthy.

I further certify that the nursery has a properly constructed house, 12 x 13 x 20 feet, for fumigating with hydrocyanic acid gas, upon which I have marked the quantity of cyanide of potassium required for an effective charge.

This certificate expires June 1, 1910, and covers only stock actually on the nursery when examined.

JOHN B. SMITH,
State Entomologist.

LIME-SULPHUR

WE ARE again offering to our customers this concentrated spray. In order to have it more universally used we have reduced the price. At the present price there is really no direct profit in it for us, but we do want every one of our customers to use it, as we know that it is, beyond question, all that we have ever claimed for it. After giving it a trial, every one must know that, aside from being worth all it costs as a fungicide, it is a perfect insecticide. This will induce every user to plant more fruit, and as we are in the tree and plant business, you can readily see how we make our indirect profit by selling the spray at practically no profit. Our own experiments have proved the worth of the material.

FOR FALL AND SPRING

Use one part of solution to ten parts of cold water. At this proportion it is cheaper than other commercial sprays. It is as cheap if not cheaper and far more convenient than any home-made mixture. A more important feature is its superiority over all other preparations.

FOR SUMMER SPRAYING

Careful experiments have proven that on Apples when used one to forty it is superior to Bordeaux. By using one to two hundred just before peaches ripen you will have practically no rot if the work is done at the proper time and thoroughly.

PRICES of the CONCENTRATED SOLUTION of LIME-SULPHUR

1 gallon, which will make	11 gallons of spray mixture, for	$1.00
5 gallons, which will make	55 gallons of spray mixture, for	2.00
25 gallons, which will make	275 gallons of spray mixture, for	7.00
50 gallons, which will make	550 gallons of spray mixture, for	11.00

These prices are f. o. b. cars here at Hightstown, N. J., or, if you prefer, at Burt, New York.
